RetailApp OrderLabels

Ordering labels made easy: Let your employees trigger the ordering process directly at the scale with RetailApp OrderLabels.

Product description

With RetailApp OrderLabels, the ordering process for labels can be triggered directly at the scale. If an employee notices at the deli counter, for example, that he is running low on labels, he quickly and easily triggers a notification including label type and required quantity to a defined target address via the scale. The recipient can then initiate the further ordering process. Additional hardware is not required since OrderLabels can be used on the existing scale. Make your ordering process easier, avoid running out of labels to prevent downtimes.

Impressive unique selling points

- Simple triggering of the order process at the scale within seconds
- Including transmission of required label type and quantity
- Besides the existing scales there is no need for any additional hardware
- Automated control system: Transparency over all orders

---

Provable benefit

- Downtimes reduced due to early reordering
- Triggering the order at the right place, in the right quantity and at the right time
- Process optimization
- Cost and time savings
- Efficient and transparent ordering process
